Living with BRCA

is a one day public conference that provides up-to-date clinical and research information focused on hereditary breast and ovarian cancer.

This unique event, open to the general public, brings together experts in medicine, biology, psychology, and wellness, all of whom are united in one goal: bettering the lives of those living with BRCA and their families and friends.

An opportunity to learn about:

- The most current information about cancer risks, surveillance, and risk reduction options for BRCA1 and BRCA2 carriers;
- Emerging evidence regarding pancreatic risk and screening as well as related BRCA 1&2 cancer risks in men;
- Psychological coping tips for cancer previvors and survivors.
